Coaching Leaders on Improving Workplace Performance

“The single biggest problem in communication is the illusion that it has taken place”

- George Bernard Shaw

Bennett Taylor works with business leaders, on a one-to-one coaching basis, to improve their communication skills. How people communicate sets the tone for how they are perceived in the workplace. To communicate well is to understand and be understood. Communicating effectively involves applying your skills appropriately in different situations, reflecting on your performance and identifying what and how you can improve in the future.

Four Areas of Emphasis:

1. Interviewing
2. Listening
3. Verbal and Non-Verbal
4. Writing

A few benefits of more advanced communication skills are an increased ability to:

- relate, persuade, lead and negotiate
- engage with coworkers and customers
- avoid, manage and resolve conflict
- be clear, concise and confident in an interview
- enhance job performance
- improve personal satisfaction
- have better interpersonal relationships
